

Math 13800 is designed for prospective elementary school teachers. Topics covered: quantitative approach to algebra and graphing; graphing relationships among time, distance, and rate; quadratic, exponential, and logarithmic functions; elementary statistical and probabilistic reasoning.

Not available for credit toward graduation in the College of Science.

Typically offered Fall and Spring.

3.00 Credit Hours