

MA 15300X (Tuesday Evening Only Section)

Policy for Dropped and Excused Quizzes/Homework

• QUIZZES/HOMEWORK

On average, students can expect 1 quiz and about 3 homework assignments per week. Make-up quizzes are not allowed. The schedule for each homework assignment is available on WebAssign and homework assignments also cannot be made-up. As such, each student's two lowest quiz scores and four lowest homework scores will be dropped at the end of the semester. To have a third (or more) quiz score dropped, a student must present acceptable written justification to the course coordinator (Patrick Devlin, MATH 804, pdevlin@purdue.edu). Since all homework is submitted online and the due date for each assignment is available well in advance, no more than four homework scores will be dropped.

• DROP-BACKS / LATE ADDS

Students who drop-back to MA 15300X from another math class, or add the course late, will have their two dropped quizzes and 4 dropped homework assignments used first, before excusing any other quizzes or homework assignments. For instance, if a student drops-back to MA 15300X and has missed 3 homework assignments and 1 quiz, that student will receive a zero for those 4 scores and will have 1 dropped homework score remaining and 1 dropped quiz remaining. If a student adds the course late, and has 9 missed homework assignments and 5 missed quizzes, the student will receive zeros for the first two missed quizzes and the first four missed homework assignments, exhausting their drops for the semester. The remaining 5 missed homework assignments and 3 missed quizzes will be excused, and the student will NOT be penalized for missing those assignments.

• STUDENT ATHLETES

Student athletes will have their two dropped quizzes used first, before excusing any other quizzes. Student athletes who miss more than two quizzes as a result of their obligation to the University can have those quizzes excused, if they provide acceptable written justification to the course coordinator (Patrick Devlin, MATH 804, pdevlin@purdue.edu). For instance, if a student-athlete misses 5 quizzes during the semester due their obligation to the University, the first two will be recorded as zeros and used as that student's two dropped quizzes, and the remaining three will be excused and the student will NOT be penalized for missing those quizzes.

This policy also applies to all students who miss quizzes due to obligations to the University; the two drops will be used first, then additional quizzes may be dropped with proper documentation.

• GRIEF POLICY

Students who miss class because of absences that fall under the Grief Policy will have all quizzes and homework assignments that were due during their absence excused without using their drops. This is the only circumstance where a student will not use their drops first. Students must report to the Office of the Dean of Students to have classwork excused under the Grief Policy. Once the ODOS has verified an absence as falling under the Grief Policy, the course coordinator will be contacted. If you feel that you have assignments and/or quizzes that should be excused under this policy, visit the Office of the Dean of Students first, then contact the course coordinator (pdevlin@purdue.edu).
